

BUSINESS THRIVING EVERYWHERE, HE SAYS

M. C. Hale Back From Vacation Trip Says Prosperity of Country Is Abounding on Every Hand. MONEY IS SPENT FREELY

Hotels and Restaurants Cramped—Big Cities Are Also Facing Housing Problems.

M. C. Hale, recently returned from an extended vacation trip through principal points of the east, states that prosperity in abundance is evident on every hand, that his long-term interests of the east are going optimistically forward with building and industrial plans in every direction, regardless of threatened and existing labor troubles and that all big cities and commercial centers are thronged with travelers.

That not only Tulsa but the cities of low spots are in the grip of advanced and rapid growth, one of Hale's statements is that New York and Philadelphia, the latter a city that has long advertised low rates, have increased by at least 100 per cent, and that.

"Every city I visited was crowded with people. It is a big getting into a hotel and one was almost forced to tip the head waiter to gain entrance into a restaurant. Everywhere I went, I saw plenty of money and everyone seems to be spending it as rapidly as it is coming in. Everywhere I went, I saw plenty of money and everyone seems to be spending it as rapidly as it is coming in."

While in the east Hale conferred with certain business interests as to the future of his private profit in the future of the business, the main motive, according to him, will be to be located in Tulsa. He reports that the business is taking the same serious and that success of the big Tulsa project seems assured.

No Profit Here

This store has set itself firmly against all kinds of profiteering. We will not buy from a house that is open to the accusation of enriching itself through unreasonable prices. As a result, it pays no fancy prices for its merchandise, but through a carefully systematized buying plan, secures the best at its real value. We have made it our rule to sell everything at a fair profit, based on an economical overhead expense, and not to make capital out of the necessities of others or the fact that materials are higher than before.
